01 PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

I analyse football to support decisions. I work with video, data and tactical context to turn matches, opponents and players into clear, visual and actionable information for a coaching staff.

The difference is not watching more matches: it is watching better. Spotting what repeats, organising the evidence and translating it into deliverables that help prepare the week, decide on a signing or dig deeper.

I solve three concrete problems for a staff: lack of time to process video volume, scattered information that never reaches the decision-maker in order, and the gap between analysis and the training ground.

Every report ends where action begins: adjust, train, monitor, sign, discard or investigate further. I work with full confidentiality and adapt to each club's internal language, on site or remotely.

02 WHAT A CLUB RECEIVES

Opposition report

Behaviours, strengths, weaknesses, set pieces and recommendations for the match plan.

Post-match report

Cold review of our own match: key moments, repeated patterns and alerts for staff and individuals.

Individual scouting

Profile by role, context, risks, tactical fit and a clear recommendation: follow, compare or discard.

Clips by player and role

Short, prioritised playlists for staff meetings, player conversations or a specific adjustment.

Set pieces

Attacking and defending set-piece analysis, ours and the opponent's, with visuals ready for the pre-match.

Weekly analysis cycle

A delivery routine aligned to the competitive calendar, from the post-match to the pre-match talk.

Live match support

In-game logging, useful half-time notes and a prepared base for the post-match analysis.

Presentations

Visual material for staff and players: clear, prioritised and in the language of whoever decides.

03 WORKING METHOD

01

Question before clip

I first define which decision needs information: opponent, player, collective behaviour or a training task.

02

Context before data

An event is not worth the same at any moment: I cross it with role, phase, scoreline and pressure.

03

Patterns before highlights

I look for repeatable behaviours, not isolated actions: what can actually hold up a decision.

04

Translation into staff language

I order the information to be read fast: finding, evidence, risk and recommendation.

05

Bridge to action

The report ends when it leaves a possible action: adjust, train, monitor or sign.

04 METHODOLOGICAL BACKING

The Toque Táctico course as the systematisation of the method

I wrote and produced in full “Videoanálisis Profesional: De Cero al Alto Rendimiento” (Professional Video Analysis: From Zero to High Performance), a training programme that sets out, step by step, the same methodology I use inside a staff. It is not a product I sell to clubs: it is the proof that my way of analysing is written down, argued and transferable. A club does not hire an intuition — it hires a process that can be audited and taught.
